

PAM WATKINS
Redmond Regional Medical Center

Pam Watkins, director of medical records for Redmond Regional Medical Center, cares for each of her employees as though they were family. When she sees needs in their lives, she graciously steps in to help however she can. After hearing her co-worker's spouse was in a serious car accident, Watkins stayed with her co-worker at the hospital and spent many hours thereafter comforting, praying, and providing food for her hurting friend. She continued to provide financial and emotional support to help ease the family's burdens during the following weeks.

After learning of co-worker Denise Cooper's need for a kidney transplant, Watkins, testing as a positive match, underwent arduous surgery to give her co-worker the ability to live a normal and healthy life. She sponsors another co-worker's child who, without the additional aid, would be unable to participate in any extracurricular activities at school. She also provides transportation and unconditional support for a fellow co-worker who is legally blind. In addition, Watkins is active in her community, volunteering for the United Way and a local homeless shelter and serving as an elementary school mentor.

After learning of co-worker Denise Cooper's (left) need for a kidney transplant, Pam Watkins (right) unhesitatingly donated one of her own.